

EVIDENCE OF SUCCESS IN THE MOVING TO WORK PROGRAM

HOUSING | SERVICE | INNOVATION

The first comprehensive evaluation of the Moving to Work (MTW) program finds that MTW agencies do better than comparison agencies on most performance measures, particularly those related to the MTW program goals of self-sufficiency and housing choice, while also meeting the standard PHA requirements for serving extremely low-income households.

RELATIVE TO THEIR COMPARISON NON-MTW AGENCIES, MTW AGENCIES REPORT:

MTW AGENCIES ALSO SERVE THOUSANDS OF ADDITIONAL HOUSEHOLDS THROUGH NON-TRADITIONAL HOUSING ASSISTANCE.

5,455

HOUSEHOLDS
RECEIVED PROPERTY-BASED ASSISTANCE

2,454

HOUSEHOLDS
RECEIVED TENANT-BASED

ALL WHILE REPORTING SIMILAR PERCENTAGES OF EXTREMELY LOW-INCOME HOUSEHOLDS SERVED:

	MTW PHAs	COMPARISON PHAs	DIFFERENCE
HCV HOUSEHOLDS THAT EARN BELOW EXTREMELY LOW-INCOME	79.8%	80.2%	↓ -0.4%
PUBLIC HOUSING HOUSEHOLDS THAT EARN BELOW EXTREMELY LOW-INCOME	79.5%	78.9%	↑ 0.6%

* indicates a statistically significant difference

EVIDENCE OF SUCCESS IN THE MOVING TO WORK PROGRAM

THE MTW PROGRAM HAS ALSO SUCCEEDED IN ITS GOAL OF PROVIDING A VEHICLE FOR LOCAL PHAS TO INNOVATE AND DESIGN NEW APPROACHES
TO SERVE THEIR CLIENTS AND COMMUNITIES, SUCH AS:

Providing case management and service enriched vouchers to promote self-sufficiency

Rehabilitating and project-basing buildings to provide additional housing

Simplifying rent structures and streamlining administrative procedures to save money

Using regulatory and funding flexibility to foster partnerships

Targeting housing assistance to special populations not reached by traditional programs

Using funding flexibility to more efficiently address local needs
